about us

Brightroom commenced business in 2003 and was set up by Claire and Mark Bunnell as a fine art digital print and finishing business for professional photographers and artists.

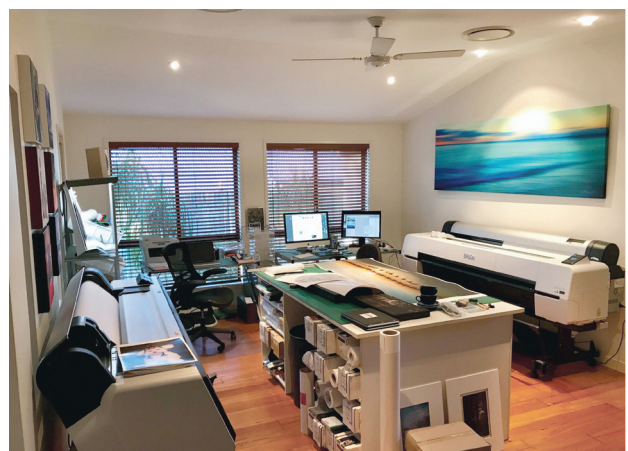

Claire and Mark have been involved in professional imaging and printing for thirty-five years and were early pioneers in fine art digital printing (Giclée) when they bought two of the first piezo inkjet printers in 1993 here in Australia.

They spent six years in Europe working with some leading pro labs on a consultancy basis before returning to Australia in 2003. Mark became a shareholder and director of Duckpond, an Adelaide based pro lab, to develop its digital print operation and prepare the business for sale in 2006.

Brightroom has developed a range of innovative new ways to present photographic art for re-sale with the superb quality now available with digital pigment printing on cotton based papers and canvases.

They work closely with their clients to achieve the best quality and are happy to provide product samples and referrals for prospective customers.

In 2018, they relocated their fine art printing/framing studio to the Sunshine Coast in Queensland. Nick joined the business as production manager in 2019.

gallery wraps

Canvas Gallery Wraps/Float frames

Gallery wraps are the traditional way of presenting canvas artwork and images. The canvas is a high quality cotton or cotton/polyester blend designed for archival art production which is sprayed with a museum quality coating to provide long term protection from UV light and moisture. For large formats, the warp resistant frames are strengthened with timber corner struts and braces.

The stretching is hand finished with tight, neatly folded corners. The gallery wrap is then finished with hanging furniture ready for installation.

An elegant addition to the gallery wrap is the floating frame where the image appears to float inside a black, white, whitewash or oak frame with a 5mm gap between the stretched canvas and frame.

image capture master file

Our professional lighting system, combined with a 36 megapixel camera, captures artwork in superb detail.

The RGB file is saved as an uncompressed TIFF file in a large colour space and is labelled MASTER file. This master file can then be used for the production of DERIVATIVES that are further edited, scaled and colour managed as needed for specific output applications. For example, a web derivative might be a small 72ppi sRGB JPEG file but the original file, the Master, is never altered. Only the derivatives are altered.

Price includes basic colour correction for printing. More complex editing is charged at $35 (inc. GST) per 15 minutes.
